The post holder will work closely with Dr. Susana Carvalho, Associate Professor of Palaeoanthropology. The post holder provides advice and guidance to research students where appropriate.

Responsibilities/duties

- Assist and contribute to predetermined, prescribed or individual/joint research objectives regarding the Paleo-Primate Project,
- Review and compile primatological and palaeoanthropological data and undertake analyses of these data.
- Develop and enhance your research profile and reputation and that of the University of Oxford and the Institute including contributing to publications of international quality in high profile/quality refereed journals.
- Document research output including analysis and interpretation of all data, maintaining records and databases, drafting technical/progress reports and papers as appropriate.
- Collaborate with colleagues and participate in team/group meetings/seminars/workshops across the Institute and the wider community (e.g. academic partners).
- Undertake any other duties of equivalent standing as assigned by Dr. Carvalho.

Essential selection criteria

1. Hold a first degree in biological anthropology, biological sciences, archaeological sciences, anthropology, statistics, or a relevant area, together with some appropriate experience
2. Possess sufficient specialist knowledge in the discipline to work within established research programmes
3. Ability to manage own research and administrative activities
4. Excellent communication skills, including the ability to write text that can be published, present data at conferences, and represent the research group at meetings
5. Experience of following and adapting methodologies
6. Excellent team work skills and flexibility to thrive in challenging environments

Desirable

7. Previous field work experience in the relevant fields of research
8. Experience of contributing to research publications
9. Experience of working in a research team and contributing ideas for new research projects
10. Research experience, at the graduate level, in Evolutionary Anthropology or Primatology.

About the University of Oxford

Welcome to the University of Oxford. We aim to lead the world in research and education for the benefit of society both in the UK and globally. Oxford's researchers engage with academic, commercial and cultural partners across the world to stimulate high-quality research and enable innovation through a broad range of social, policy and economic impacts.

We believe our strengths lie both in empowering individuals and teams to address fundamental questions of global significance, while providing all our staff with a welcoming and inclusive workplace that enables everyone to develop and do their best work. Recognising that diversity is our strength, vital for innovation and creativity, we aspire to build a truly diverse community which values and respects every individual's unique contribution.

While we have long traditions of scholarship, we are also forward-looking, creative and cutting-edge. Oxford is one of Europe's most entrepreneurial universities. Income from external research contracts in 2014/15 exceeded £522.9m and we rank first in the UK for university spin-outs, with more than 130 companies created to date. We are also recognised as leaders in support for social enterprise.

Join us and you will find a unique, democratic and international community, a great range of staff benefits and access to a vibrant array of cultural activities in the beautiful city of Oxford.

School of Anthropology and Museum Ethnography

SAME is renowned for its contributions to anthropological theory, its commitment to long-term ethnographic fieldwork, and its association with the Pitt Rivers Museum and the anthropology of visual and material culture. Home to over sixty members of academic staff and researchers, over a hundred doctoral students, nine Master's programmes, and two undergraduate degrees, Oxford anthropology is one of the world's largest and most vibrant centres for teaching and research in the discipline. In recent years it has also become known as a centre for medical anthropology, for migration studies, and for cognitive and evolutionary anthropology.

Academically and organizationally the School of Anthropology and Museum Ethnography comprises the Institute of Social and Cultural Anthropology (ISCA), the Centre on Migration Policy and Society (COMPAS), the Institute of Human Sciences (IHS), the Institute of Cognitive and Evolutionary Anthropology (ICEA), the Institute for Science, Innovation and Society (InSIS) and also aspects of the academic side of the Pitt Rivers Museum (PRM, which is governed through the University's Academic Services and University Collections Group). ICEA includes the Centre for Anthropology and Mind (CAM).

More information about the School can be found at www.anthro.ox.ac.uk.

Social Sciences Division

The Social Sciences Division is a world-leading centre of research and education in the social sciences. The social sciences at Oxford are distinctive for both their depth and breadth, with activity spanning fourteen departments and faculties and one cross-divisional unit. Interdisciplinary links within and beyond the university are strong, extending to the humanities, natural sciences, and medical sciences.

Academic and research staff and research students are engaged in world-leading research that challenges current ideas and theories and is tackling some of the major challenges facing humanity, such as sustainable resource management, migration, governance, poverty and development, and justice. REF 2014 confirmed Oxford as the UK powerhouse for research in the social sciences, where Oxford accounted for more world-leading (4*) research than any other institution, across the social sciences units of assessment to which it made submissions. The division also delivers an exceptional range of high quality educational programmes (undergraduate, postgraduate taught and postgraduate research), all of which are underpinned by the innovative research being undertaken by our academics.

How to apply

Before submitting an application, you may find it helpful to read the 'Tips on applying for a job at the University of Oxford' document, at www.ox.ac.uk/about/jobs/supportandtechnical/.

If you would like to apply, click on the Apply Now button on the 'Job Details' page and follow the on-screen instructions to register as a new user or log-in if you have applied previously. Please provide details of two referees and indicate whether we can contact them now.

You will also be asked to upload a CV and a supporting statement. The supporting statement must explain how you meet each of the selection criteria for the post using examples of your skills and experience. This may include experience gained in employment, education, or during career breaks (such as time out to care for dependants).

Your application will be judged solely on the basis of how you demonstrate that you meet the selection criteria stated in the job description.

Please upload all documents as PDF files with your name and the document type in the filename.

All applications must be received by midday on the closing date stated in the online advertisement.

Information for priority candidates

A priority candidate is a University employee who is seeking redeployment because they have been advised that they are at risk of redundancy, or on grounds of ill-health/disability. Priority candidates are issued with a redeployment letter by their employing departments.

If you are a priority candidate, please ensure that you attach your redeployment letter to your application (or email it to the contact address on the advert if the application form used for the vacancy does not allow attachments)

Should you experience any difficulties using the online application system, please email recruitment.support@admin.ox.ac.uk. Further help and support is available from www.ox.ac.uk/about_the_university/jobs/support/. To return to the online application at any stage, please go to: www.recruit.ox.ac.uk.

Please note that you will be notified of the progress of your application by automatic emails from our e-recruitment system. Please check your spam/junk mail regularly to ensure that you receive all emails.

Important information for candidates

Pre-employment screening

Please note that the appointment of the successful candidate will be subject to standard pre-employment screening, as applicable to the post. This will include right-to-work, proof of identity and references. We advise all applicants to read the candidate notes on the University's pre-employment screening procedures, found at:

www.ox.ac.uk/about/jobs/preemploymentscreening/.

The University's policy on retirement

The University operates an employer justified retirement age for all academic and academic-related posts (grade 6 and above), for which the retirement date is the 30 September immediately preceding the 68th birthday. The justification for this is explained at:

www.admin.ox.ac.uk/personnel/end/retirement/revisedejra/revaim/.

For existing employees any employment beyond the retirement age is subject to approval through the procedures: www.admin.ox.ac.uk/personnel/end/retirement/revisedejra/revproc/

There is no normal or fixed age at which support staff in posts at grades 1–5 have to retire. Support staff may retire once they reach the minimum pension age stipulated in the Rules of the pension scheme to which they belong.

Equality of Opportunity

Entry into employment with the University and progression within employment will be determined only by personal merit and the application of criteria which are related to the duties of each particular post and the relevant salary structure. In all cases, ability to perform the job will be the primary consideration. No applicant or member of staff shall be discriminated against because of age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage or civil partnership, pregnancy or maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, or sexual orientation.
